Would you like to help understand the tracking of recovery from concussions?

We are looking for people who have NOT suffered a recent concussion and want to be involved in research.

You would attend one in-person visit at one of our clinics.

At this visit, we will take a blood sample from your arm, ask you to fill in a questionnaire and test your eye-tracking ability with a non-invasive testing device.

Help with research into tracking recovery from concussions.
